DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-5 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which the subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 3. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 6,351,050 to Coles in view of U.S. Patent No. 6,049,153 to Nishiyama et al.

Coles disclose the construction of an electrical power assisted steering system including an electric motor (50) comprising:

an annular outer stator (400) having circumferentially arranged stator windings (column 4, lines 26-27) of nine or a multiple of nine salient poles (401) radially arranged at an equal pitch, each of said salient poles having respective one of said stator windings wound therearound, three or a multiple of three poles of said stator windings being connected in series to provide three phases (Coles, Figure 3), each of said three phases comprises those three or a multiple of three poles of said stator windings which are not positioned adjacent to each other (Coles, Windings A, B, and C of Figure 2);

the stator windings being connected such that they can be driven by electric power of three phases.

Art Unit: 2834

However, it fails to disclose an inner rotor positioned within the outer stator and consisting of permanent magnets of eight poles.

Nishiyama et al. teach the construction of a motor having:

an inner rotor (13) positioned within an outer stator (2) and consisting of permanent magnets(14) of eight poles magnetized radially so that N and S poles are alternately arranged circumferentially, wherein each of said three phases comprises those three or a multiple of three poles of said stator windings which are positioned adjacent to each other, connected in series; and having a motor shaft (4) on which said permanent magnets of eight poles are circumferentially arranged, said motor shaft having solid form;

for the purpose of producing an inductance difference between the q-axis inductance and the d-axis inductance, so that it is possible to rotate and drive the rotor by making use of the reluctance torque.

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to use the motor disclosed by Nishiyama et al. on the electrical power assisted steering system disclosed by Coles for the purpose of producing an inductance difference between the q-axis inductance and the d-axis inductance, so that it is possible to rotate and drive the rotor by making use of the reluctance torque.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See PTO-892.

Art Unit: 2834

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
